

UL VERIFICATION

Introducing a third-party product claims verification program provided exclusively by UL and backed by science. The UL Verified Mark program pairs your innovation and product excellence with the highest quality and most trusted science-based processes of UL in order to provide distinction and set your product apart in the market.

- Available for products, systems, software, facilities and more
- Easy, self-service Verified Mark application options made available once UL Verification is obtained
- Online database listing with information about products bearing the UL Verified Mark will be available

UNIQUE IDENTIFIER

A distinctive means to differentiate your product and marketing claim, the unique identifier directs to our on-line UL database containing verification information and testing activity
