

Quality solutions for the footwear industry

Our expertise in footwear

We help you improve the strength of your global supply chain, optimize your product's performance and protect your brand's reputation.

UL has comprehensive knowledge of the standards and risks associated with sourcing, construction and performance of footwear, textiles and apparel.

Our state-of-the-art laboratories and technical experts help you determine whether the footwear you manufacture, sell and distribute complies with regional regulations while meeting consumer expectations for quality, fit and durability. We specialize in helping luxury brands and retail chain stores maintain stringent quality controls across the entire supply chain.

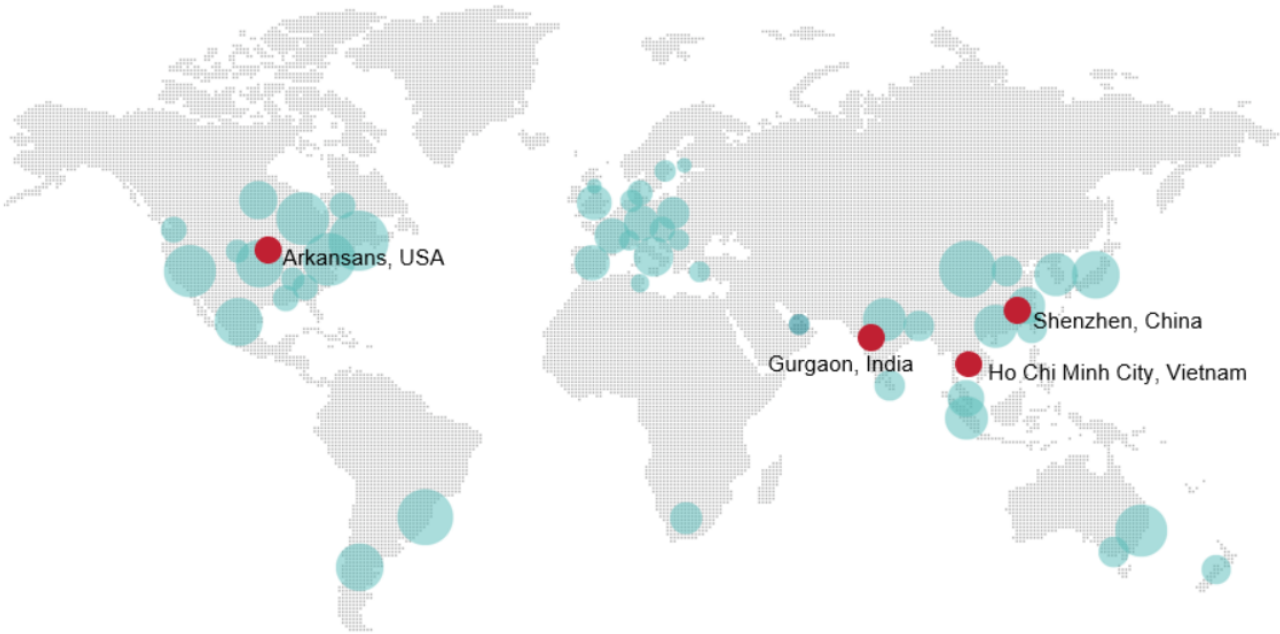

Working with UL is the first step in the right direction when designing your quality program for footwear. Our comprehensive testing scope encompasses raw materials testing, finished product testing, safety assessments, performance evaluation, and much more.
